success. Joe Crocker, son of the candy peddler, and John Simpson, known as the gay boy with a glass eye, acted as ushers, and slung themselves with a perfect looseness in performing their duties. For downright style, Joe and John can't be beat. Their reporter, who has presented himself in the past in a top hat, buttons, and carrying a gingham umbrella, noted down the names and harness of some of the persons present, which we give as a matter of special interest:

Mrs. Job Tuttle wore a braided straw hat, made for her by Mrs. Jones, a milliner; and it is not so much to say that the latter can make the best millinery of any woman in the business. Mrs. Tuttle's dress was striped gingham, with outside garment of the same material. She was the observed of all observers.

Lucretia Tuttle wore a blue serge dress, with pantaloons of nankeen, edged with two-cent edging, and made a very fine appearance. Her pantaloons, in particular, fitted remarkably well around the good advantage.

Mrs. John Baldwin looked exceedingly pretty in a large plaid silk, which we understand, was cut over from a dress worn by her sister, deceased. For a cut-over dress, it was one of the best we ever saw.

Lydia Rose had on a lov-necked, sorel-colored alpaca, frizzled with browa ribbon, and her sister Jane wore a lov-necked, yellow print, with a good deal of tucking. Low-necks becom-a this family.

We have the names of several others, but want of space compels us to omit them. After the ceremony the newly-married couple returned to the home of the bride, and one who was present informs us that the way mince pies and cider suffered during the evening was a caution to dyspeptics. Only one incident occurred to mar the pleasure of the occasion. John Somets, who is courting a sister of the bride, got a walnut meat in his wind-pipe and nearly suffocated before relief was obtained. Barring this mistaken swallow, the reception was a success.

THE CRANE-YERGER TRAGEDY.

The Killing of Col. J. G. Crane
 by Colonel E. M. Yerger, at Jackson, Miss.

The Story as Told by the Friends

The Memphis Ledger, of Wednesday evening, gives the following account of the killing of Col. J. G. Crane, formerly of Dayton, Ohio, by Colonel E. M. Yergers, at Jackson, Miss. It will be seen that there are two sides to the story:

ONE SIDE.

A private dispatch was received in this city yesterday afternoon, from Jackson, Mississippi, stating that Colonel E. M. Yerger, of that city, had killed a Federal officer. The facts which have reached us are briefly as follows:

Colonel Yerger has been in this city ever since the commercial convention, until within the last two or three days. During his absence from home a piano of his was seized and sold for taxes, according to law. The purchaser was Colonel J. G.

Crane, of the United States army. He was chief of subsistence of the department, and was lately acting Mayor of the city of Jackson. It is stated that there had been some misunderstanding between him and Yerger for some time, but nothing serious was expected to arise from this. When Colonel Yerger returned, day before yesterday, and learned that Crane had bought the piano, he became greatly enraged, and the following day sent for him. The bought Crane to demand satisfaction. The latter did not anticipate any trouble, and was unarmed. They met on Tuesday morning on the street, and Crane commenced to explain what had occurred, when Yerger flew into a passion, caught the man and shook him violently, and at the same time made use of the most intemperate and opprobrious epithets. Crane resisted this by striking him with a rattan cane. Yerger instantly drew a thugknife, a terrible weapon, made to hit from the shoulder, and stabbed Crane three times in the heart. The man's heart was cut in two; he fell dead on the ground. Yerger was arrested by the military, and taken to camp under guard and heavily ironed. The Coroner's Jury returned a verdict of "willful murder by E. M. Yerger." It is farther stated that Crane was a favorite with the people, and that Yer-

THE OTHER SIDE.

The following comes a different source:

Colonel Yerger had a previous difficulty with Colonel Crane, growing out of this same transaction. During Yerger's absence to this city, Crane caused a very valuable piano belonging to Yerger to be seized and sold, and became the purchaser himself at a mere nominal sum. On Yer-Yerger's return he demanded personal satisfaction of Crane. This was refused by Crane. At the time of the homicide the parties had met in the street, and Yerger denounced Crane, to which Crane responded by an attempt to cane Yerger, and in defense of himself Yerger drew his knife and inflicted the wound which proved fatal.

The public should be slow in making

The conduct of Crane was grossly outrageous and aggravating, and the dispatch first sent is a one-sided affair, and evidently gotten up in the interest of the Radicals, as it comes from the Radical operator at Jackson.

A gentleman who came from Jackson yesterday, states that Yerger challenged Crane and that Crane refused to fight him. Yerger then denounced him on the street. Crane was armed and finally drew a pistol, whereupon Yerger closed upon him with the knife. Crane was formerly in the army, but had been mustered out of service, and at the time of his death was a private in the military appointment.

YET ANOTHER LIBEL SUIT.—Mr. Chas. Pfrshing, proprietor of the Tobacco Leaf, was arrested yesterday at the instance of Mr. Bernard Hess, late an internal revenue inspector, the charge being libel, with damages laid at $10,000. Messrs. Lorillard and Gillender bailed Mr. Pfirsching $5,000 each.—New York Sun, 5th.

Whither are we drifting.

The Attorney-General of the United States has decided that military commissions are lawful in Texas, for the reason that during the rebellion that State was deprived of constitutional government, and that the right to govern it by military law was not precluded by the cessation of actual hostilities, nor the President's proclamation declaring the rebellion at an end. Such a decision is probably worthy of the source from which it comes, and we don't know that anything else could have been reasonably expected.

The effect of such a decision, however, is perfectly revolting to the spirit of the age and country in which we live. It is going back, instead of forward, in all that pertains to law and civilization. Such a law opinion might suit the Emperor of China, but it is sadly at variance with the form of government which prevails in the United States. All of the judiciary of our unhappy country, whose opinion is worth having, hold to a doctrine the reverse of the Attorney-General's; but that makes no difference with him. The opinion he gives serves his end, and hence he gives it, regardless of consequences.

The Attorney-General belongs to that class of fanatics in our country who will never be content with anything the South can do. Georgia has disgraced herself in attempts to meet the demands of this class of fanatics; but now that she has done about all she could do, she will find that she has yet many steps to take in the path of humiliation she began to walk. We venture the opinion that Georgia will soon be classed with Texas, Virginia and Mississippi. So that all of her infamously acts of reconstruction will amount to nothing. No lawyer or statesman need be surprised at anything from the Attorney-General after his Texas opinion.

We do not believe that there is any other free people in the world who would take such an opinion from the Attorney-General as we take it. The idea of trying citizens in Texas for civil offenses by a court-martial at this late date is too revolting for human endurance. Such things ought never to have been done even in the heat of the rebellion, but to entertain such trials now that we are at peace, is too much to be borne. There are many countries which boast of not half the freedom of our own that would not submit to any such outrageous and revolting proceedings for a moment.

But it is vain to try to estimate what Americans will stand. They have borne so much in the past that they may be regarded as capable of enduring anything their rulers choose to impose upon them for the future. General Grant is to-day the most consummate despot on earth. Where, we ask, beneath the broad heavens, is there a civilized and free people who, in time of peace, would permit their citizens, for civil offenses, to be tried and condemned and executed by courts-martial? We think there will be none found but ourselves—certainly no people professing free institutions who submit to such despotism tyranny as we do.

That Dark and Earnest Eye.

The great breach of promise case which recently passed through the courts of Chicago between Miss Craig and Mr. Sprague, did considerable toward the elucidation of that doctrine which is expressed in the words "could we but see ourselves as others see us." For instance both of these ardent lovers had an opportunity of seeing Sprague's eye—the latter when he looked into a mirror, and the fair Amanda when she looked upon the face of her devoted. And yet these lovers entertained quite a different opinion of Sprague's eye. The fair Amanda when speaking of the orb that lighted up the face of Sprague, designated it as "that dark and earnest eye." But when Sprague came before the glass, and after seeing that orb of his, attempts a description; he says he has the "aristocratic" in it, and, to use his own words, "I cannot see one Bett out of my I."

Now, there is the difference between seeing ourselves and being seen by others. And, if the Chicago breach of promise case has done nothing else, it has furnished a first-rate illustration of the difference of opinion entertained of one's self and by one's self.

The Spanish Embargo.

We are permitting Spain to exercise a kind of embargo upon every vessel that leaves our principal ports. Spanish spies must look into our ships when they sail to see if they contain anything for the Cuban insurgents. True, some ships have gotten off with arms and men for Cuba in spite of this embargo, but it seems to us that quite too much deference is shown to Spanish officials in this matter of ships leaving our ports.

The people of the United States are in favor of Cuba and against Spain in this matter. And the sooner the Spanish spies are made to quit prying into our ships at home or at sea, the better. If we lift this Spanish embargo and Spain gets mad and thereat, let her enjoy her wrath. We don't propose to have the United States fit out any ships for Cuba, but we as little incline to have Spain exercise such a scrutiny and search into the vessels that our citizens send to sea, loaded with whatever they have to sell to Spain on Cuba, or any other country.

The Teacher's Congress, held in Berlin in the latter part of May, was attended by over four thousand instructors from all parts of Germany. The principal subject of discussion was the propriety of removing scholastic institutions from the supervision and control of the clergy. Seven teachers from the United States are reported to have been present. The subject of a united Germany on the formation of a common Fatherland excited much enthusiasm among the delegates both from North and South Germany. Vienna was selected as the place where the Congress should be held in 1870.

The New York Post furnishes a comparative statement of the weekly wages paid to the five most highly compensated grades of workmen in the United States and England. The wages in United States currency received in 1867 for six days' labor by the following workmen were as follows: Machinists, $18.18; forgers, $17.25; engineers, $16.50; grinders, $12.16; helpers, $9.50. In England, in gold, machinists, $7.50; forgers, $8.50; engineers, $7.50; grinders, $6.50; helpers, $6. It will be seen that in England the highest wages are received by forgers, and in the United States by machinists.

Tux school teachers and parish clergymen of the province of Lorraine have petitioned Louis Napoleon to revoke the decree which prohibits the use of the German language in the schools. Lorraine is situated in the northeastern part of France, and is divided into the four departments of Vosges, Meurthe, Moselle and Mense. It was for a long time attached to the empire of Austria, but in 1736 was ceded to France in exchange for the Duchy of Tuscany. The German language is more familiar than French to many of the inhabitants, and hence the petition of the schoolmasters.

It is stated that the case of the United States against Erlanger, banker, and Armad Brothers, ship-builders, which involves six million dollars, arising out of a Confederate ship contract, and the deposit of money for carrying out the same, will be brought before the French Court of Appeals in a short time. Jules Favre has been appointed principal counsel for the United States, in place of H. Berryer, lately deceased. The whole case will be reopened and additional testimony will be introduced to rebut certain affidavits which were put in as evidence at the last trial.

The New York Sun says that on last Monday evening one of the members of the Cuban Ladies' Relief Association received from Havana about $20,000 worth of magnificent jewelry—diamonds, rubies, emeralds, etc.—the personal contributions of patriotic ladies in Havana to the cause of Cuban independence. Among them were some tiny sets of jewelry worn by children, which had been contributed in aid of the patriots. These articles are to be sold at a fair to be given by the ladies of the association, to be held in this city some time next month.

The San Francisco Pacific says that common wine, in the wine-growing regions of California, is cheaper than milk, and more freely used. In some places the wine is thirty cents a gallon, and milk fifty. One large wine raiser offered his lot (between four and five thousand gallons) at twenty-five cents per gallon, if any one would take it. In the best grape-growing region of the State, grapes to be used in making wine, sell at the mill, in loads, for one and a quarter cents per pound.

The citizens of Chicago are taking the preliminary measures to construct a railroad, by means of which, it is asserted, the passage between that city and London, England, can be made in eight days and twenty hours. The railroad is to run on a direct line along the south shore of Lake Ontario, and thence by way of Whitehall and Rutland due east to Portland, Maine, over a route recently chartered by the States of Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine, and from Portland on to Newfoundland.

The prices of labor in the cotton factories in New England are by no means equal to those among mechanics. About factories the laborer is generally paid $1 and 25 per day; the weavers earn about the same sum. Yet, out of these same factories, the employers have been getting dividends ranging from fifty to one hundred and thirteen per cent., and are still clamoring for protection. It is labor, not capital, which needs protection.

A PATENT was issued, on the 8th instant, to Daniel E. Conklin, of Baltimore, Md., for a design for a cooking stove. Mr. Conklin, in his application, says: "The essential features of my design are: First, the Virginia State coat of arms on the side doors, with the words 'Sic Semper Tyrannis'; and, second, the name 'Stonewall,' which is applied above the side doors, or in other convenient places."

Mrs. Thompson, of Joliet, Ill., whose grandson was killed last week, had a large share of bereavement. Some years ago, one of her sons was accidentally killed; another was blown to pieces in the late war; not long since a daughter, who had just graduated from school, was drowned while on an excursion on Lake Erie, near Cleveland; and now a grandson is instantly killed by the cars.

Two insurance companies, the Protection and the Kensington, have quietly failed in Philadelphia. The Protection had represented their assets at $200,000, but it is found that some showy office furniture is about all. The liabilities of the Kensington are heavy; policy-holders more numerous than those of the Protection, but assets small.

The brakemen on the eastern division of the Erie (New York) railroad struck for higher wages on Sunday and quit work. The Superintendent failed to secure other hands, and on Monday evening their demands—an increase of twenty-five cents a day—were acceded to. The strike has ended, and matters are now going on as usual.

The Memphis Avalanche of yesterday says: "It is rumored that a gentleman, formerly high in the service of the late Emperor Maximilian, is in the city organizing an expedition for Cuba, to consist of about one thousand men. The expedition is to go via Mobile, where, it is said, a vessel now awaits, and where the necessary arms and outfit will be supplied. We give the rumor for what it is worth; but it is probably not without some foundation."

A LETTER from Algiers says the Jewish community in that city is in a state of great commotion in consequence of a decision of the Consistory, imposing an additional duty of forty cents per kilogramme on all meat sold to the Jews. An energetic protest has been drawn up against this tax, as being both illegal and impolitic.

The foreign importations last week at New York are lighter than usual, less than five million dollars, though quite heavy enough for the demands of legitimate trade, seeing how little Europe is taking from us in the way of exports. They were more by half a million than for the corresponding month last year.

The seasons are getting to be as irregular in Europe as in America. At St. Petersburg, in the middle of May, the heats of June had already set in, and the people were promenading in summer clothes on the quays to see the great ice blocks floating down the Neva.

A GENTLEMAN named Mitchell arrived in Bangor, Maine, Monday evening of last week, who left Hong Kong on the second day of May, having made the passage in twenty-nine days! He made the trip from San Francisco to New York in six days.

ONE of the telegraphic dispatches sent to the Pope on the occasion of his jubilee came from the farthest regions of Lapland. The bearer of it had to travel six hundred miles before he reached the nearest telegraph office.

A WEALTHY American, betrothed to a Bonaparte princess, has "gone back" on her. He has suddenly left Paris and gone to Germany with the intention of not returning to France any more.

THE first new Southern flour of the season was received at Charleston, South Carolina, Thursday, from the Excelsior Mills, Augusta, Georgia, and sold for twelve dollars per barrel.

MISS JUDITH RUSSEL, of New Bedford, writes: "I have been afflicted with severe prostrating cramps in my limbs, cold feet and hands, and a general disordered system. While visiting some friends in New York, who were using PLANTATION BITTERS, they prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small wine-glass full after each meal. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I had not done for years. I feel like another being. My appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of PLANTATION BITTERS."

Secrets Advanced.
As soon as an article purporting to be of reality has been tested and its value ascertained by public opinion, unprincipled parties endeavor to replenish their depleted purses by counterfeiting, and substituting spurious for the genuine article. Some time since, mercury, in the disguise of pills, powder, and lozenges, was given for all diseases of the stomach and liver, while quinine was freely administered for the chills. At length, HOS. TETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS made its advent, and an entire new system of healing was inaugurated. The beneficial effects of this valuable preparation were at once acknowledged, and its use for all complaints arising from the stomach of a morbid nature, and upon which certain relief and remedy, its proprietors have made the above preparation, and years of careful study and sitting, and are now offering the reward claimed by this valuable specific, and which they so richly deserve. It is a sure cure for all diseases of the stomach, and is reliable in all cases, and it therefore demands the attention of the afflicted. j10 4t
